Temporarily Close

ily “ I love you“ NYC

Experiencing the city the way it is right now. It makes me think that I need to be careful because it could break at any moment. It could also be because the city is actually breaking. It has shown that we can do better as humans, as neighbors. It shows us that life is not only money, and power but also health and kindness.

The city of New York has closed for a short period of time.

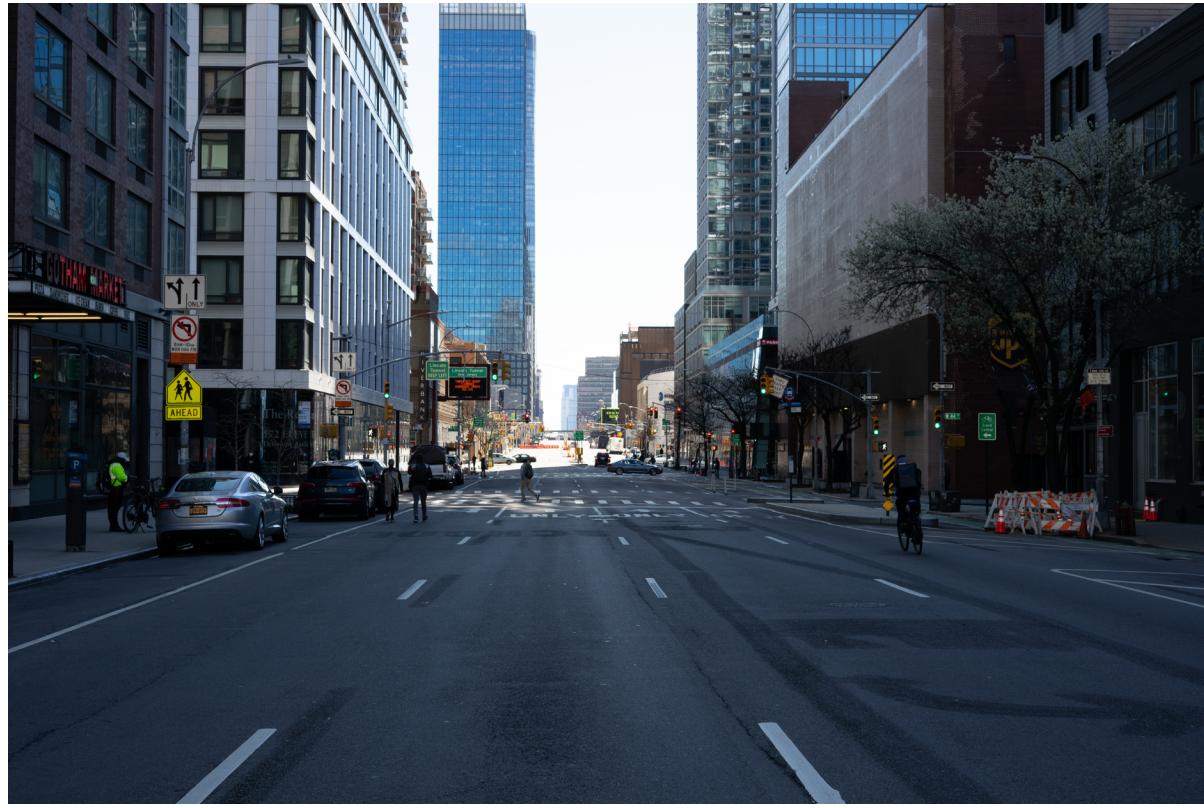

As the well-being of thousands rests on the hands of others committing to stay safe. Societies that encouraged the individualism of its citizens now scramble to discourage that same individualism and have replaced it with the community and collective goals.

Thank You!

This project started as a way for me to go out and de-stress from school.

2 years later it is seeing the
a proper release.

Thank You!

We got through this alone together.
